Quality Enhancement Seminars for Colleges

As part of ASIC's commitment to assisting Colleges to raise the quality of their operations and services to students we are arranging a series of seminars to start in January 2009.

In addition, we are also arranging a 'passport to teaching' programme and various teacher training programmes including an MEd programme in partnership with the University of Gloucestershire.

Seminar programme

Jan	Developing an Ethical Marketing Strategy Appointment of and Working effectively with Agents Visa Documentation Management Excellence
Feb	Self Evaluation Effective Web marketing Ethics in Education Student support – Duty of care Health and safety in the Workplace

Details of the teacher Education programmes including the MEd will appear here shortly.

These seminars will be half day in duration. If you are interested in attending any of these then please contact Liesle Hatton at liesleh@asic.org.uk

There will be a £50 per seminar fee chargeable to cover costs. As we have already had a great amount of interest in these programmes it may be necessary to change the dates slightly. Venues will be confirmed at a later date.
